Famous photographer Steve McCurry had the honor of using the final roll of Kodachrome film ever produced. $ \$
Imagine that film photography has been made completely obsolete by digital cameras. The very last roll of film rolls off the assembly line, and ends up in your camera. Your photos will live in history as the last film photos EVER taken.
You get 36 exposures: what do you choose to take photos of, and why? There's no budget, so you can travel anywhere in the world. You have a year to do it, so you can shoot at any time of the year you would like. List your specific shots you want to take, or summarize what types of photos you'll take, but EXPLAIN why you chose THESE shots as the LAST EVER ON FILM.
